

Media Release Wednesday 2 January 2013

Tura New Music in association with The International Computer Music Association, Edith Cowan University and The Australasian Computer Music Association announces:

The 2013 International Computer Music Conference

2013 ICMC | IDEA

International Developments in ElectroAcoustics

12 - 16 August 2013

Perth, Western Australia

Keynote speakers include Agostino Di Scipio (Italy) and Alvin Curran (USA).

The 2013 ICMC also incorporates the regional Australasian Computer Music Conference and is part of the 11th Totally Huge New Music Festival, Perth, Western Australia. The Conference will include paper presentations from leading exponents and the showcase the latest in electronic and acoustic music from around the globe through The Festival program.

Conference Co-Covenor Lindsay Vickery says: "For the first time in its nearly forty year history, the International Computer Music Conference will be held outside the northern hemisphere, here in Perth. The conference is the world's peak gathering of performers and researchers advancing the frontiers of electronic music."

The Conference and Festival will be based in and around the Perth Culture Centre including The Perth Institute of Contemporary Arts, The State Library of WA and The Western Australian Museum.

The conference theme for 2013 is IDEA - International Developments in ElectroAcoustics. The conference encourages the submission of papers and works on and for computer music and digital audio, including: aesthetics, composition, education, musicology, as well as perceptual, scientific and technical aspects.

Conference Convenors: Cat Hope (ECU), Lindsay Vickery (ECU), Tos Mahoney (Tura New Music)
